SENIOR DAREDEVILS: Larry Ziegler, Anni Reifsneider, Larry Mohn, Diane Keifrider, Alan Oelschlaeger, Jacquie Ray, Betsy Martinez.

Frank Langsdorf never did get out of this position.

Chuck Snyder and Frank Langsdorf believe that every litter bit hurts — ask Larry Mohn.

Senior Merry-Go-Round propelled by one horse-power engine — Chuck Snyder.

Chuck Snyder displays his passing form.

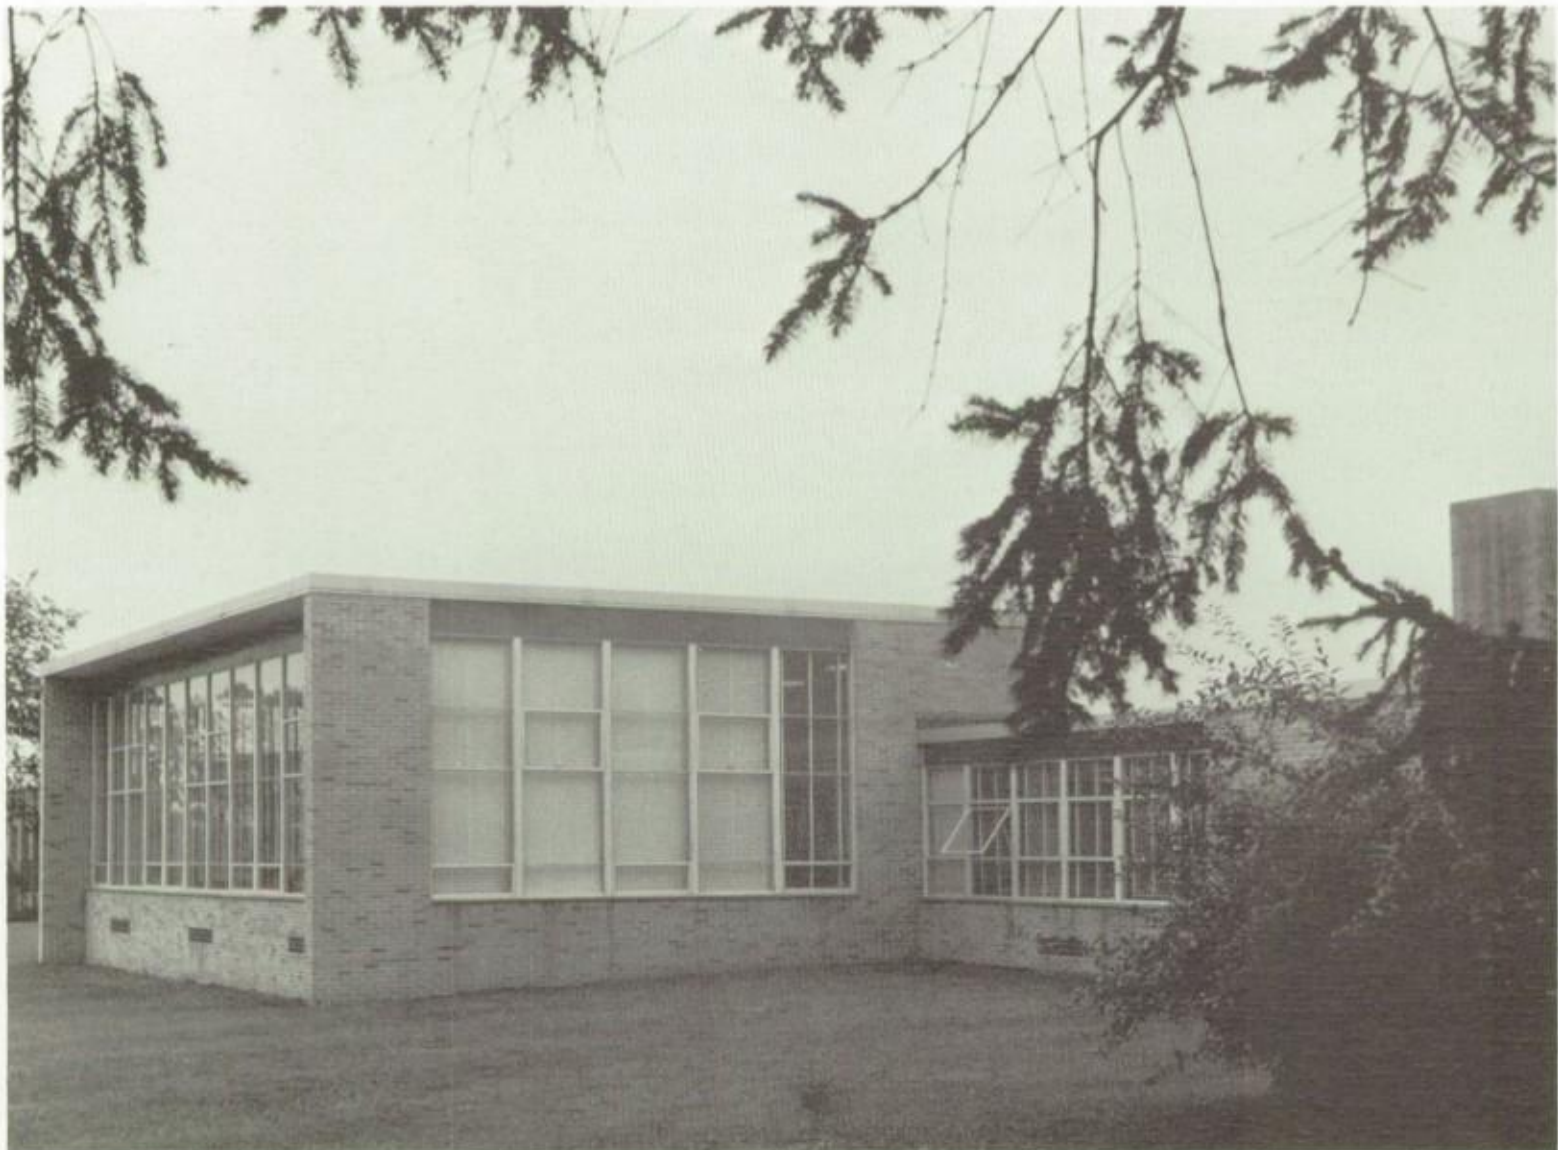

The seniors prove they're real swingers.

In these changing times, and despite the tension in the drama of world events, the serenity of school life has remained comparatively unaffected.

We acknowledge our lasting sense of obligation to the Schwenksville schools. The success or failure of the world of tomorrow will depend largely upon the judgments of the present youth. Therefore, give them sufficient preparation to meet staunchly the challenges presented by a confused and troubled world.

To our capable advisors and faculty we express our appreciation, for they have imparted to us a greater desire for knowledge that our lives may have purpose and meaning.

WE PAY TRIBUTE

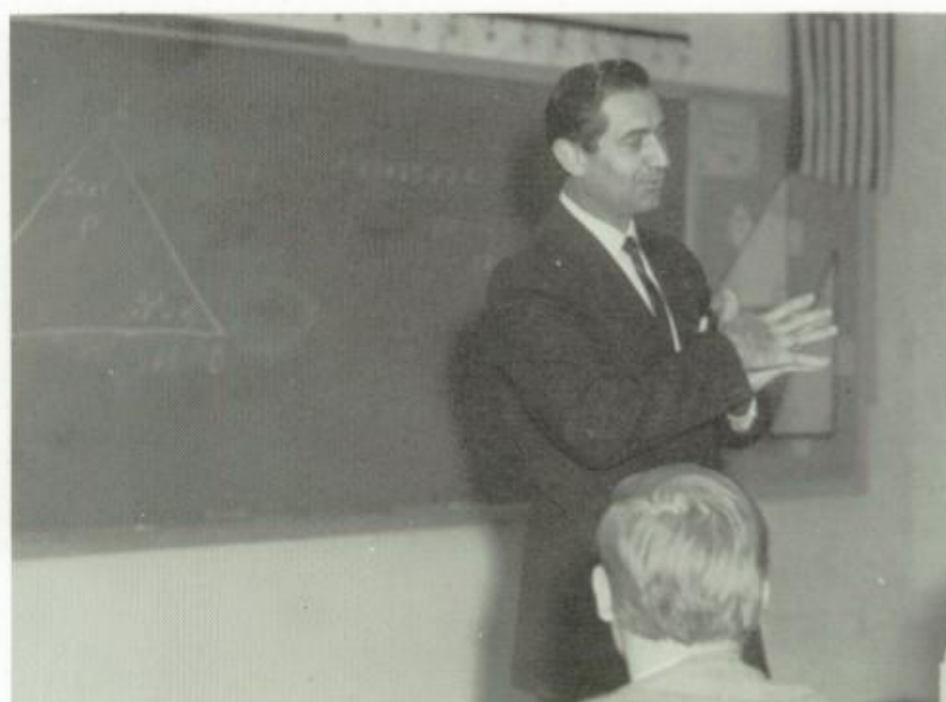

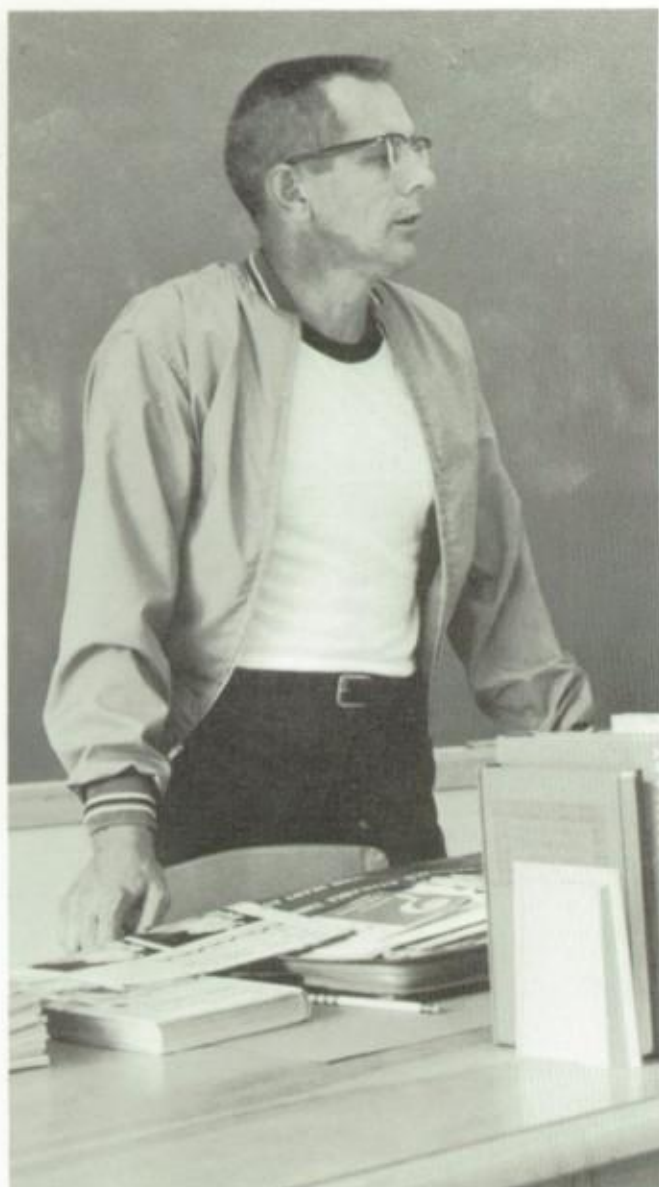

We deem it a privilege and a pleasant duty to honor one whose individualism, fair and impartial judgement have earned and held our respect throughout the period of our association. One does not meet this man without appreciating his sincerity and courage that has been a guiding influence to those of us whom he has taught.

We shall remember him, not only as the science teacher who introduced us to the world of Earth and Space, but also for his ability and leadership on the football field as our assistant coach.

In grateful appreciation we, the class of 1968, respectfully dedicate our Lanconian to you.

Getting a late start, Yearbook Club didn't get organized until late in the summer. If we thought meeting at school during vacation wasn't possible, we changed our minds fast enough when we saw all of the work which lay ahead of us. Since there were no activities periods we were forced to meet on our own time. Finally getting started, we plunged chin deep into work, snapping pictures, assigning writeups, and meeting deadlines ever hovering over us.

Each new turning page was a challenge. And to meet that challenge we had to work together, weighing each other's ideas and suggestions. The midnight oil was long spent but still we kept going, gathering news, scouting information, writing, and rewriting. In mid-January, the publicity staff erected a bulletin board, promoting the sales of our yearbook. The final stages were at hand. We sent the last of the pages to the publishers. Our work was finished at last, just in time for the rush of spring.

"Yearbook pictures, again?" says Mr. Keenan.

A major part of its funds has gone to the sponsoring of a foreign exchange student and the publishing of a new student handbook.

The Band, under the capable and admired direction of Mr. "B", has helped the school spirit at pep rallies and football games. It has played in such activities as the annual Christmas and Spring Musicals within the school year. The marching unit has added a great deal to the half-time minutes. Along with the majorettes and cheerleaders, they led the way in many parades, including our own Halloween Parade. Their bright and colorful flags add to the spectacular drills and formations performed.

Upper Southeastern District Orchestra

Valley Forge Area Band

For the first time, Schwenksville High School had two great musical events. This year we hosted the Valley Forge Area Band and the Upper Southeastern District Orchestra. More than 300 students from the surrounding school districts participated. Many hours of practice preceded their visit to Schwenksville and when they arrived many more followed.

These touches of culture would not have been possible without the help of Mr. Benigno and the Band Boosters, who made sure the students had everything they needed, including the cokes at each break.

Thursday morning we opened wide the doors and the musicians poured in. Arriving bag and baggage, they moved into the already confused gym where they would spend most of their time from now until Saturday night. Rounding up their music and instruments they proceeded to the stage to find their seats.

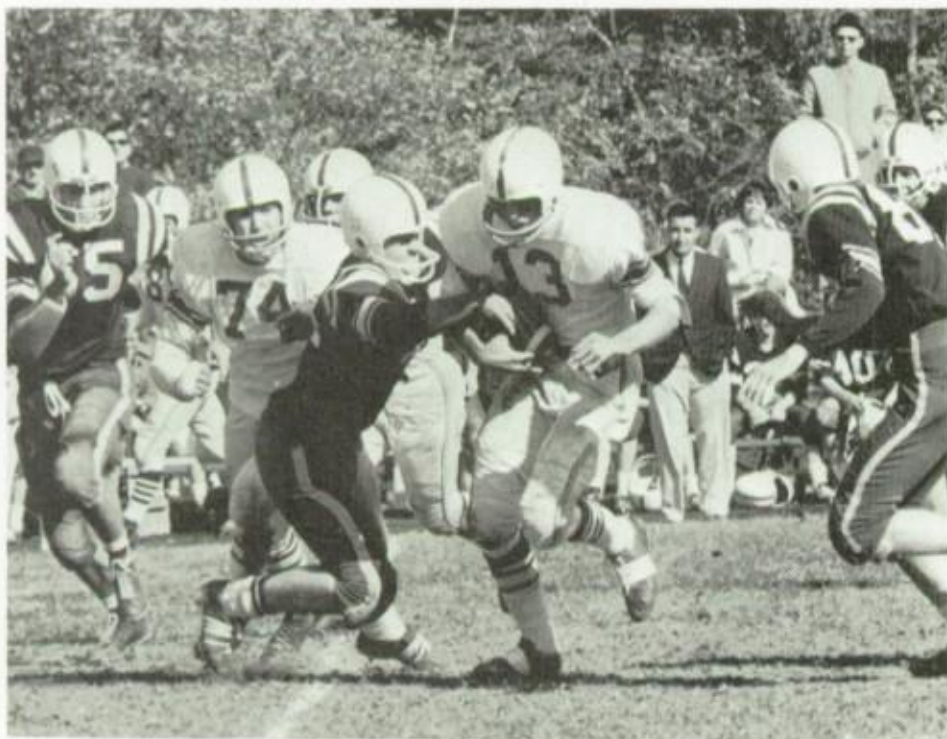

Special assemblies were given the students on Friday afternoon. These prompted many more to attend the performances on Friday and Saturday night.

Homecoming, sponsored by Student Council, was not only an exciting day for students, but also provided a reunion for many alumni. Team captains, dating back to 1933, as well as former Homecoming Queens, honored us with their presence.

This, along with a winning team, attracted our largest Homecoming crowd in history.

Other events featured the S.H.S. marching corps, the traditional crowning of the Homecoming Queen, who for this year was Kathy Albright, and the presentation of her court.

As the warning rays of the springtime sun touched the hills of Schwenksville High School, students came out-of-doors for one of the most colorful and exciting events of the school year. they won with

Under the new leadership of Frank Prusch, Schwenksville was out for a winning football season. Everyone knows Schwenksville had a good '67 football team, except the players themselves. A five win and three loss record wasn't satisfactory for our gridiron boys. With nine starting men back from last year, they couldn't see anything less than the number one position in the Inter-County League. A few broken plays and faulty executions kept us from attaining that 8-0 record.

spirit and pride

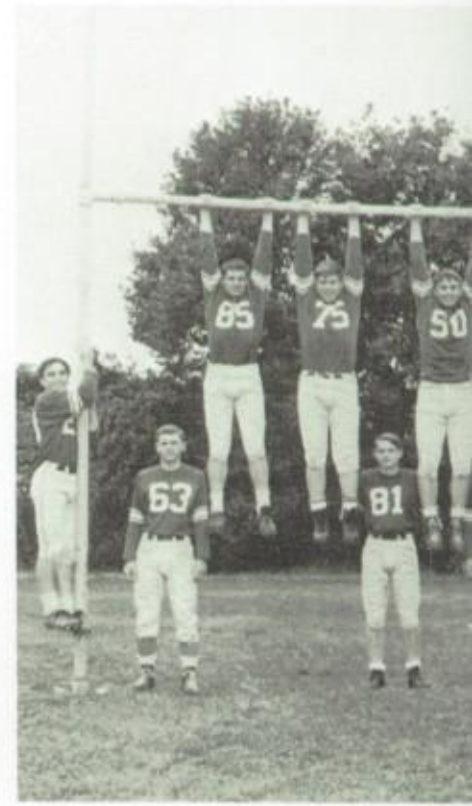

The seniors were definitely the backbone of the team. Ten out of the eleven were accounted for on both the offense and defense. Offensively Chas Weygand threw seven touchdown passes while Chuck Snyder caught fifteen passes for 304 yards. Stan Trump, Tim Huels, and Frank Langsdorf did most of the rushing, with Stan scoring nine touchdowns while carrying the ball 66 times for 676 yards for a 10.3 average per carry. Defensively Al Knappenberger, John Yerger, and Chas Weygand were standouts, with Chas intercepting seven passes. Al Knappenberger with 14 extra points in 24 attempts and Chuck Snyder with a 31.8 yard punting average contributed greatly to the team's success.

Although the team will lose twelve seniors, we look for another successful season next year.

Under the direction of new J.V. coach Harold Krum, the young Birds showed steady improvement even though they failed to win a game. Because of their lack of height, they had to depend on speed and good ball handling. With a little more practice, coordination, and shooting skill, these boys can develop into a fast running team, and the Bluebirds will be the ones to watch and to beat next season.

This year's varsity hockey team had lots of get up and go plus the spirit to produce a great team. They didn't win many games, but they did play like real professionals by putting up a good fight. Never at any time did an opponent score over three goals against the strong defense. The high scorer of the year was Linda Boyer, an agile center. We want to thank these girls and their coach, Mrs. Marion Scullin, for putting forth such fine efforts.

Another year of success for those "Schwenky Birds" has gone by and their time for recognition is here. The determination and skill that each girl showed made our team a winning one. Under the coaching of Mrs. Scullin and Miss Moyer, everyone soon became well versed in shooting, as well as in defensive playing. This made the team almost unbeatable. Lead by Pam Yablonski, with 81 points, and Linda Boyer, with 59 points, our team finished with a 5-1 record.

Study hall?

We do study ... at least Carol does.

Jay proves that occasionally Seniors do study.

Time out for a tasty break.

Wait a minute!

It's for you.

Hello? They hung up.

You're kidding!

Preparing for high school wasn't easy.

As our class reached Junior high school we began to realize our responsibility to ourselves and to our school. There was an increasing interest in the activities available to us.

When our freshman year came upon us we leaped into the Magazine campaign with unsurpassed enthusiasm. Our class was led by responsible class officers, chosen at the beginning of the year. These leaders would have a deciding influence in the coming years.

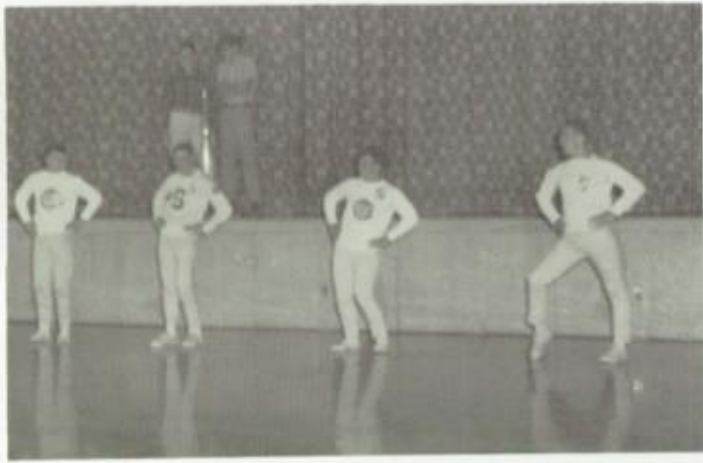

To nourish the mind, one must also nourish the body.

As Sophomores we knew there was before us a long hard path to trod, so we started out on the right foot by electing efficient class officers: President Dean Robison; Anni Reifsneider, Vice President; Linda Boyer, Secretary; and Larry Mohn, Treasurer.

Our first truly great efforts as a group were put forth when we decorated for and presented our Sophomore dance, "Wonderland by Night."

With great success we jumped full scale into writing and presenting our Junior assembly, The Ted Mack Amateur Hour which was highlighted by Batman and Robin, and a pie throwing skit. Culture was expressed by a great ballet troupe featuring our graceful boys. As the year progressed, we planned for the Junior-Senior Prom, "Aloha Wahine" an old Hawaiian name. That night we were greeted by native girls and given leis. Toward the end of the year we bid the Seniors farewell in the traditional way of our school. We presented them with a garland of flowers made during the day by our industrious class workers. We watched our President, Chuck Snyder, receive the Senior Class Key with dignity, which meant that it was now up to us to open all the doors and meet the challenges with confidence and determination. In September we returned to school with a new outlook on school. We were now the leaders. We started off with our Senior dance followed by a Christmas card sale.

This spring we combined our efforts with Mr. Geissler and tried our hand at acting. Our Senior play was titled "The Groom Said No." This three act comedy concerned the problems of a returning soldier who finds out that his family have made arrangements for him to marry a girl he left behind. He scares them into thinking he has lost his mind and so enables his new girlfriend in the nurse corps to come to his aid. Fists are about to fly when Ed decides he's going to marry the girl left behind.
